tainly earned the thanks of those who beieve that his nomination was a grave nistake. That he should have been considered fit for such a position, however, is only a fresh illustration of the curious intellectual glamour which has for so long a time obscured and confused the percepions of his friends. These latter, unfortunately for themselves, persist in regardng every expression of doubt concerning the alleged transcendent abilities of their idol as the effect of unreasoning prejudice or unjustifiable envy. Such a mental attitude of course renders any recovery from their own painful condition of blind ness out of the question, but whatever mistake they may make in this way it is nevertheless necessary to insist upon the proposition that Mr. Conkling has never et exhibited any such talents as could be held to vindicate the extravagant laudations of those who believe in him. He is, indeed, a man who has achieved a larger reputation upon a smaller capital of achievements than any of his contemporaries. A very careful and painstaking search has recently been made into his public record, with the avowed purpose of discovering, if possible, the actual grounds of his celebrity. The results of this inquiry appeared in the form of a paper by F. W. Whitridge, in the International Review for October, 1881. In that paper Mr. Conkling's career was analyzed, and his claims to distinction as lawyer, party leader, orator, statesman, were each and all submitted to the most dispassionate investigation. The result in every case was absolute demonstration of the insubstantiality of the foundations upon which his fame rests. It was made clear that he has never done or said anything to diocrity in all the really crucial moments of his career; that whenever he has been thrown entirely upon his own resources he as failed signally. But the most important exhibit of Mr. Whitridge's paper, so far as his recent comination to the Supreme Bench is concerned, is the proof given of his unfitness or the administration of judicial functions. For it has been made perfectly clear that Mr. Conkling is not a great lawyer, or inleed even a second-class lawyer. In Congress he acquired no distinction as a legislator. As a lawyer practicing in the Courts he has never enjoyed any reputaany sense of the term. It was shown that, on the other hand, he has fallen below me-

During the whole of his Washing ton career he has only had six cases of the oath, or in some modification which The Senate yesterday failed to reach a vote on the before the Supreme Court, and two of these will open the door to Bradlaugh, for it is were almost certainly given to him because of his political influence; whereas, Garfield, of whom Blaine said in his oration declares his willingness to go through all that he never seriously undertook to practite declares in the declares in the ceremonies, and who, moreover, aftice law, had thirteen cases in the same firms that the oath will be binding upon period. Mr. Whitridge says of him : too early, and he has been too deeply engrossed in its details, to have had time to drink deeply of the fountain of the 'law, or to have built up any considerable practice. The great legal firms of his State do not know him as an adversary, and so far as can be judged by an observer, the most of his retainers have been before committees, or in the offices

'in Washington, or in other cases where 'his political position was supposed to 'give him a special influence with the 'tribunal." GASLIGHT COAL OIL.

THERE ARE MANY HOUSEHOLDERS IN Sacramento who, under misapprehension, use oils for lighting, thinking they are cheaper than gas. To such we would say: If you are content with the amount of light an oil lamp will give you, we guarantee to furnish it to you, or even more, with gas, at a cost less than oil. When you consider breakage of chimneys, time consumed in trimming wicks daily, upsetting lamps, spilling oil on your carpets, the constant danger of explosions, and the increased cost of insurance, there is no room for comparison. FIFTY-SIXIH DAY OF THE SLICKENS CASE IN COURT.

Arguments of Judge I & Belcher and

Judge W. T. Wallace Before

Judge Temple. At 9:30 A. M yesterday the arguments in fliction upon the Court to make any extended | 8 y, remarks now. He felt a great hesitancy about enlarging at all upon any points. It is conceded that the case is to be a test case, and so a wide latitude had been allowed. Treating it as such, and as proven that the valley has been damaged by mining, the question is, Have the miners the right to do this damage, and bring the mountains down upon the valleys? The defendant says it has the right, and the people affected must bear it, however great the burden. Mr. Wilson says the people of the valley are acquiescing because they do not THRONG THIS COURT ROOM And follow this argument, to the neglect of their daily duties. We have been told the valley was a great lake, and that it has been filled gradually by the act of nature, and the miners are but aiding her still in that work. But, we ask, what has it to do with the case that the processes of nature have formed this valley, and that the low places are being filled up? Does it follow that miners have hence the right to fill up the valley artificially? What have all the references to the Po and Ganges and Hoangho to do with the case? We know there is on all rivers a certain amount of wash; we know rivers build in their deltas; we know the face of the earth in ages has changed; but how does all that affect the right of the miners

TO BURY UP THE VALLEY ? Because Pliny tells how they mined 2,000 years ago, shall therefore the Sacramento val-iey be ruined? They forget to tell us that hiny says the Senate by decree protected Italy from the search for metals: that mining was prohibited there 2,000 years ago, and ever since her cities and towns and lands as have been protected. As Italy was saved by the decree of the Senate of old, so must California be saved, and the future historian record, as Pliny did of Italy, California was rich in minerals, but by decree of the people mining was prohibited and the soil protected from impending ruin. They say only 43 600 acres of farming land has been destroyed, and that the damage is but about two or three millions. But the Court knews great bodies of rarely fertile land have been destroyed by mining deposits along the American, the Bear and the Yuba. By vast outlays farmers here and there have built works to keep off the rair. This very season, in Sutter county, the people have spent 6 per cent. alone to keep the sand from flowing over them, and have gone into debt for 6 per cent more, and yet could build but part of the distance required. No fact is clearer than this, that a terrible calamity is impending and will culminate unless hydraulic mining cease. He, Judge Belcher, was here because his people are threatened and their homes in Run mine. There are whole counties thickly populated that will be ruined and the people

Can there be any doubt that if relief does not come, appalling disaster must fall upon this He told a touching story of a farmer, well-to do, who lost his farm on the Yuba, and was driven out and died, and now his daughter, poor and needy, is begging that It did not want to pass through the terrisome pittance be paid her for the homestead now far beneath the banks of mining debris. The miners admit the rivers have been filled At Marysville the Yuba is filled over twenty feet, and to its very top. They tell us natural wash has done it. How is it these effects are not found on streams where there is no the doctrine of appropriation. They made their own rules and regulations. They proare not found on streams where there is no mining? Counsel saw the beginning of hydraulic mining in 1854, and has watched it down to the present day. He kaew early mining had done much to injure the streams. He was asking now not for relief from all the injury of the past, but that those now engaged shall cease to continue to add to the injury already inflicted. Counsel described the tremendous force of the hydraulic monitors. A thousand fold more of gravel is to water-heads. IF THEY HAVE A RIGHT o mine now they have a right for one hundred years to come, and to work out all the hills and mountains, for ever all new veins were contemporaneous. Sacramento was the are being discovered. If they can dig out the thin line of gold-bearing earth and not de stroy the valley, the people will not of just They have been long suffering, and do not wish to destroy mining; but if the time comes that all mining threatens the valley, it must cease. That is not now the situation.

Same to-day, but must not be in conflict with State or Federal laws. Suppose they should go upon the Merced river, now bright and pure, and dashing through Yosemite valley; go on public land above the valley and find gold and form a district and make rules and establish customs, and begin to send down sand and gravel into Yosemite? At once the State would say, "Here, you are destroying my valley forever—a gift to me, a heritage forever." But the miner replies, "Oh yes; but I have a right to establish rules and cusms, etc., and if the result fills up Yosemite and ruins your falls and streams and mead ows, you must stand it." It is folly; in the whole history of the State such right has been denied by decision and statute. The first case was that at Bidwell's Bar, where the Supreme Court (5 Cal., Fitzgerald's case) denied the

was that at Bidwall's Bar, where the Supreme Court (5 Cal., Fitzgerald's case) denied the miner's right to take the plaintiff's land by his mining processes. So in 16 Cal., 154, the Court held the Legislature couldn't give the miners the right to mine on private property mand destroy the fruits of labor. So run all the decisions. When one interferes with an clear with laws of custom; everything was that at Bidwall's Bar, where the Supreme Court (5 Cal., Fitzgerald's case) denied the illustration. (Wood on Nuisances; Cooley on Torts, 13 Wall, 166) The Supreme Court has even said you cannot condemn land for a private use or and you cannot condemn land for a private use and so.

even for a public purpose without compensation. The valley is occupied by people, homes and farms, and these homes were bought of the Government. Mr. Wilson says the defendant has a right to take the streams, to use them to flood the lands with debris. In all the history of the law no war-rant can be found for such a statement. They say they have a license to do it. From the foundation of the Government that has been denied, and it has been declared always you shall not even damage a man without his consent. The necessities of a desperate case alone force forward these preposterous pleas and pretenses. The Government has never granted a license, says the Supreme Court; the supposed license of the miner from the General Government consists only in its for-bearance, says the same Court (citing cases). If there is no right to bury lands of the people, is there a right then to fill up the rivers of the people? That the rivers are filled they admit, and try to account for it, and say the rivers afford still all the navigation demand-they should do unto you." Put the miner in the valley and the farmer in the miner's place, and apply the rule. Ah, no, it is the sordid cry, gold, gold, gold; give us gold, and the rivers and velleys and world may go to the devil. Give us gold, and no rights, no homes, no possessions, no labor, no industries of a lifetime shall be respected. They declare they will bury us; they are doing it as effect-ually as Pompeii was buried beneath the ashes of Vesuvius. All that they say when Mr. Wilson says "we have a right to do as we are doing." Aye, bury us; more, they will turn the Sacramento river away, and Sacramento the debris case were resumed before Judge Temple.

In California in two cases the Supreme Court holds there can be no prescription or limitation as to a nuisance as against the United States or one claiming thereunder. Counsel made a fervent appeal to the Court to interpose

It gave the law to the State, was the source of all the resistance of the resisting rights of the never dreamed of the resistance of the resist gave no countenance to those from the cow the mineral wealth of the country. counties. The State Government was organ-

Sacramento was the child and favorite of the miners for the cipital of the new government. Yet we are told Sacramento is now arrayed against the mining interest, but we know it to be untrue.

The miners WERE WITHOUT A RIVAL In the Government, and none could stand must cease. That is not now the situation. They tell us that miners' custons give them a right to go on, and that it has right to go on, and that it has and they put the men on the bench who shaped the policy of the State as the miners had begun it. Then, after all this, the State was admitted, and then came the Act permitting miners to make regulations, etc., State or Federal laws. Suppose they should they thus receiving back a part of the legis-lative power of the State. Was anything of that kind done for agriculturists? In 1855 came the Act permitting miners to go any-where and mine on agricultural lands, with a I mitation, however, that a bond should be given for damage. That was done with a some of justice—a self-imposed restriction on what they held to be inherent power. Next came the law to exempt miners from taxaion : then the Act to permit miners to con lemn property for their purposes, and lastly, the Drainage Act. There were

MANIFESTATIONS OF POWER, And the policy of it, and that the last two were h ld unconstitutional does not weaten Such is the uniform rule. No power in the world can, has or will give the miner right to put his tailings on the lands below him; for a man cannot be deprived of his recommendations. Soar is contained by them. the common law that it adapted itself to the existing condition of things. So the laws and the executive fostered the great leading interest, mining. As late as Gov-ernor Irwin's administration this was i lustrated, where, by message, he set out the conflict between mining and agriculture. and deplored injury to either, and pointed out the calamity to follow the enforcement of the common law against the miners. The present Executive has followed in the same vein. The judicial department, too, kept pace with the legislative and executive. An early case in 1853, 3 Cal, shows the Court considered claimed rights in direct opposi-tion to the common law. In the same volume a case was considered, where a miner turned the whole American river to work the bottom, and the doctrine of riparian rights was not considered which guarantees that the water shall flow where accustomed to, and the Court held the pursuit lawful, though the whole stream was diverted. In 1855, So in 5 Cal., 39, the Court declared the right to obtain gold to be

A PUBLIC FRANCHISE. Whatever that is. So it is repeated in 6 Cal, 558. In 5 Cal, 140, is a remarkable case, for th Federal Supreme Court praised and in-dorsed as one of the foundation stones of the California system they came later to sprrove. There the miner's right of individeal approdeclared to be a crime in California. Netwerk declared to be a crime in California. Netwerk or done on water, sufficient to give effect to the succession working of the mines and the greatest good of the greatest number. In 1857, 7 Cal., Sims vs. Smith, one turned his tailings into Dabbit Creek, and another caused the waters ferred to fill the river, or to impair navigation in the slightest degree. A few years ago the largest San Francisco steamers went to the foot of C street, Marysville, now the sand is not three feet below the surface of the ground there. Here, opposite Sacramento, sand is not three feet below the surface of the ground there. Here, opposite Sacramento, the river is filled 15 feet. Does this constitute a nuisance? Wood says any unauthorized obstruction of a stream is a nuisance. the former. So in S Cal., 338, it recognizes the right of appropriation of water for mining. So in 15 Cal., 143, the right to use the channel of a stream with which to drain tailings

They tell from the debate on the bill in Congress, and from the debate on the bill in Congress, and the speeches of Senator Stewart on the quesus in geological ages when the Sierras are gone and the bays filled, the matter the mines put in the river will there remain, yet in the same argument they say they are filling rivers and have a right to do it. That is consistency, truly! Over 71 000 000 cubic yards of earth have been worked off of defendant's mine. One million yards is how much? Why the new roadway two miles out from Oakland, filled in twelve to niteen feet above the water, has in it 1 000 000 vards. Well fell into the arms of the Union. By Act of Congress California is given the right, in the here is 71 times that thrown into Canyon creek, and they'd have us believe it is still laws regulating and providing easements, there. Counsel at length described the hydrogenerator of the mines. THE COURTS ARE NOT TO DEPART

From the well settled line of judicial decisions now, because the agricultural interest has risen from its low estate and has come into conflict with what was once the dominant interest. The issue is one for the politi-cal arm of the Government to consider, not the Courts. Congress has already measures before it looking to the correction of the evils complained of here. What has the Supreme Court of the United States said meanwhile: argument already made and in support therefore. I cannot have a usufructory right in that cases cited by defendant, and showed that in several of them the Courts hold, as plaintiff claims here, that for a cought to run and is accustomed to run. The law of appropriation, however, comes in and also that one in doing lawful labor can-not throw earth and stone on his neighbor's lands. He cited cases in Maiue where saw-habit and custom. Now, Judge Rhodes says, habit and custom. Now, Judge Rhedes says, let the quartz mines go on, they will feul the water some, but the people can stand it. If the plaintiff's doctrine is good at all, what right have the quartz mines to foul the water at all. In 1874, in Basey vs. Gallagher, 20 Wall., the question was the legality of the Act of Congress of 1866, and the Court said it was valid to recognize the customs that a fervent appeal to the Court to interpose and save the valley and its people as the Sen at eintervened to save Italy from the effects of mining, as Pliny records.

Afternoon Session.

Judge W. T. Wallace, at the afternoon session, opened the closing argument for the defence. He said in 1850 California erected herself into a State prior to admission, opened the closing argument for the claimed part of his title to have vested before 1866; but the Court refused to consider that, example 1866; but the Court refused to consider that,

Cuticura

I will now state that I made a miraculous cur f one of the werst cases of skin disease known be patient is a man forty years old; had suffer of fifteen years. His eyes, scalp and nearly his whole body presented a frightful appearance. Had had the attention of twelve different physicians, who prescribed the best remedies known to the profession, such as iodide poassium, arsenic, corrosive sion, such as iodide potassium, arsenic, corrosive sublimate, sarsaparilla, etc. Had paid $500 for medical treatment with but little relief. I prevailed upon him to use the Cuticura Resolvent (blood purifier) internally, and the Cuticura and Cuticura Soap externally. He did so, and was "c mpletely cured." The skin on his head, face and many other parts of the body, which presented a most loathsome appearance, is now as soft and smooth as an infant's, with no scar or trace of the disease left behind. He has now been cured twelve months. Reported by nonths. Reported by

WAR DECLARED

A Number of Merchants engaged in the DRY GOODS. BOOT, SHOE and CLOTHING BUSINESS have entered on the Warpath, each claiming to have superior advantage over the others.

CAUSE

Of all this bombast is plain. Heretofore there has been a combination existing between these merchants to keep the prices high enough to enable them to live in luxury. But, like all cliques and rings, dissension arises, and after failing in every method to harmonize, they all assist in fanning the flames of discord by participation. Consult the daily papers, and you will see the announcements: "BANKRUPT SALE," "CLOSING OUT," "LESS THAN COST," "CLEARANCE SALE," "NO HUMBUG," etc. This is all sham, and no dealer who uses these sensational readlines has any love for the TRUTH; for there is not a word of truth in what they say.

We propose to throw a little light on this subject. After the split in this combination, the Warriors (and many of them have formerly had reputations as firstclass dealers), stocked their shelves with a most inferior quality of goods-buying up large lines of AUCTION TRASH-the object being to quote prices less than their competitors in this warfare, and as a result they are now endeavoring to dispose of this rubbish as No. 1 Goods. But those who dance must pay the fiddler, and the purchasers of this trash will pay for their experience. You have no redress; you purchase these goods on the recommendation of the dealer, and after a VERY LITTLE SERVICE, you find the goods are not what they have been represented to be. You return the goods, and acquaint the merchant of the manner in which you have been deceived, and for satisfaction he informs you that you could not expect to obtain the BEST for the price you paid.

We, not being members of this clique, would inform the public that we are in a position to SELL FIRST-CLASS GOODS AT PRICES THAT WILL DEFY ALL COMPETITION.

WE INVITE ALL TO INSPECT OUR WELL-SELECTED STOCK OF

GOODS, GLOTHING, BOOTS AND SHOES, FANCY GOODS,

LADIES' AND GENTS' FURNISHING GOODS.

Etc., and feel confident that the prices which our advantages enable us to quote will convince all that we are the
